HONOURING A LEGEND | WHO WAS JILL LINDSAY?

Jill Lindsay was a trailblazer within the Australian Football industry. For more than 40 years, Jill worked for the AFL and was a hero to generations of staff and football people who worked with and admired her. Jill remains the longest-serving employee in the history of the VFL / AFL and was the first woman honoured with an AFL Life Membership.

Jill started her career as the VFL's Office Clerk, quickly advancing through the ranks in a variety of roles including Match Day Supervisor, Operations Manager, Membership Manager, and finally as the AFL's Ground Operations Manager. She was a mentor to many women across the football industry, and a loyal and trusted friend to those who knew her. She was a natural leader whose inner strength and support for colleagues made the people around her walk taller.

Sadly, in 2010 Jill lost her battle with cancer and her passing was deeply felt across the broader football community. While she is lost to us, she will never be forgotten. The AFL Commission created a scholarship in Jill Lindsay's name, recognising her outstanding service to the game and to further promote careers for women in sports administration.
